

A NEW HISTORY OF IRELAND

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY
PLANNED AND ESTABLISHED BY THE LATE T. W. MOODY

- Vol. I Prehistoric and early Ireland
- Vol. II Medieval Ireland (1169–1534)
- Vol. III Early modern Ireland (1534–1691)
- Vol. IV Eighteenth-century Ireland (1691–1800)
- Vol. V Ireland under the union, I (1801–70)
- Vol. V Ireland under the union, II (1870–1921)
- Vol. VII Ireland, 1921–84
- Vol. VIII A chronology of Irish history to 1976: a companion to Irish history, I
- Vol. IX Maps, genealogies, lists: a companion to Irish history, II

J-3-f-152-(1)

A NEW HISTORY OF IRELAND

I

PREHISTORIC AND EARLY IRELAND

EDITED BY

DÁIBHÍ Ó CRÓINÍN

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Finally, we record with sorrow the death on 13 February 2000 of F. X. Martin, a member of the board of editors since the foundation of this project, and its chairman since 1984; the death on 31 December 2000 of William O'Sullivan; and the death on 5 June 2003 of Ann Hamlin, who revised the text written by Kathleen Hughes and contributed an introductory note.

F. J. BYRNE
W. E. VAUGHAN
ART COSGROVE
J. R. HILL
DÁIBHÍ Ó CRÓINÍN

Royal Irish Academy
3 October 2003

CONTENTS

PREFACE	v
CONTRIBUTORS	xxviii
MAPS	xxxii
PLATES	xxxii
LINE DRAWINGS AND TEXT FIGURES	xl
ABBREVIATIONS AND CONVENTIONS	xliv
INTRODUCTION: PREHISTORIC AND EARLY IRELAND
by T. M. Charles-Edwards	lvii
I. THE GEOGRAPHICAL ELEMENT IN
IRISH HISTORY	by J. H. Andrews
The maritime boundary: insularity	i
Size	3
Climate and agriculture	4
Settlement patterns	5
Centralisation	7
Regions: provinces	8
The central lowland	9
Eastern Ireland	11
Settlement and altitude	12
The Pale	14
The south-east/ north-west divide	15
Ulster; the link with Scotland	17
The effects of plantation	19
Topography and religion	20
Munster; access by sea	21
Dairying, settlement, and disturbance	24
The west: a 'native enclosure'	27
Regional poverty	28
Congestion; language	30
Insularity and nationality	31

II THE PHYSICAL ENVIRONMENT by J. P. Haughton	32
Location, dimension, and environments	32
Relief	34
Effects of glaciation	35
Regional divisions	39
Caledonian uplands: Donegal and Connacht	40
Caledonian hills and lowlands: the east	41
Hercynian ranges: the south	43
North-eastern basalt	45
Central lowlands	46
The drumlin belt	48
III IRELAND BEFORE 3000 B.C. by M. J. O'Kelly	49
The quaternary era: glaciation	49
The great interglacial; subsequent glaciations	51
Late glacial time, 13,54–8500 B.C.	54
Post-glacial time	55
Land connections: plants, animals, and man in Ireland	56
Toome Bay	57
'Larnian' culture	59
Mesolithic settlement: Mount Sandel	65
Lough Boora	66
Other sites	67
IV NEOLITHIC IRELAND by M. J. O'Kelly	69
Agriculture and houses	69
Axe factories	70
Introduction of agriculture	72
The settlement at Lough Gur, Co. Limerick	73
Court tombs	78
Portal tombs: Meath; Sligo	80
Passage-tombs	84
Wedge-tombs	86
Tomb-building and neolithic society	89
Standing stones and alignments	93
'Passage-tomb art'	93
'Rock art'	96
V BRONZE-AGE IRELAND by M. J. O'Kelly	98
Beaker ware	98
Weapons and tools: the Newgrange settlement	101

Beaker burials: the Grange stone circle	102
Food vessels: cremations; cairns	104
Urns and urn burials	106
Stone circles	110
Late bronze-age burial sites	112
Ballinderry, Co. Offaly; crannogs	114
Metal-working: innovations c. 1200 B.C.	116
Mining; furnaces	117
Tin and trade	119
Casting	119
Axes	121
Halberds and daggers	123
Rapiers, razors, spears	126
Gold objects	127
The later bronze age, 1200–200 B.C.; Ireland's 'first golden age'	129
VI IRON-AGE IRELAND by Barry Raftery	134
The spread of iron in Europe	134
Irish metal-working	135
The introduction of iron-working to Ireland	136
The end of the bronze age	138
The rise of La Tène culture: the Celts	139
La Tène comes to Ireland, c. 300 B.C.	140
Lisnacrogher, Co. Antrim	141
Continental origin? La Tène as a strand in the Irish iron age	145
Weapons; chariots	146
Dress-fasteners; personal ornaments	148
The Broighter hoard	151
Querns; food production	152
Animal husbandry	153
House-types; material culture	154
Bronze trumpets	156
Metal-working; enamel	157
'Lough Crew' decoration; decorated stones	158
Ringforts	161
Hillforts	162
Promontory forts	163
Limits of knowledge	164
The 'royal sites': Tara, Navan Fort, Dun Ailinne	166
Trackways and linear earthworks	169

Burials: ringbarrow sites	171
Age at death	173
Contact with Roman Europe: refugees and merchants	174
A military expedition?	176
Roman finds in Ireland	177
An unravelled tapestry	180
VII IRELAND, 400–800 by Dáibhí Ó Cróinín	182
‘The foolish Irish race, forgetful of its history ...’	182
The success of synthetic history	183
Origin legends	186
The pentarchy	187
Leinster: the Dál Messin Corb; the Uí Garrchon	188
The Uí Dúnlainge and Uí Cennselaig	190
Mac Cáirthinn; the Uí Failgi	191
The Uí Bairrche	193
Timna Cathair Máir	195
The seventh century	197
Uí Dúnlainge monopoly of the kingship, 738–1042	200
Dominance of the Uí Néill	201
Uí Néill origins	202
Lóeguire; Coirpre; Muirchertach Mac Ercae	205
Midland kingdoms of the southern Uí Néill	207
The Clann Cholmáin Máir and Síol nÁedo Sláine	208
Uí Néill hegemony in the northern half of Ireland	210
Ulster: the survival of Ulaid power	212
Dál Fiatach; Dál nAraidi	213
Báetán mac Cairill	215
Battle of Mag Roth (637): the end of Ulaid hopes of recovery	218
Buffer kingdoms; the contraction of Ulster	220
Munster: the Éoganachta	221
Imblech Ibar; the Múscraige	222
West Munster: the Éoganachta Locha Léin	224
Munster self-assurance and Uí Néill ambition	226
Connacht: lack of a strong tradition of over-kingship	227
North Connacht: the Uí Fiachrach	228
The Uí Néill and Connacht	229
The Uí Briúin	230
The Calraige; the Uí Maine	231
Consolidation of Uí Briúin power	233

VIII THE ARCHAEOLOGY OF EARLY MEDIEVAL IRELAND, c.400–1169: SETTLEMENT AND ECONOMY	by Nancy Edwards	235
The extent and role of archaeological evidence		235
The archaeological study of early medieval Ireland since the 1830s		236
Excavation		237
Radiocarbon dating; dendrochronology; air photography		237
An expanding database		238
Settlement: regional variation, land, building materials		238
Ringforts: raths		238
Cashels		242
Purpose and construction		245
Internal structures		245
Houses associated with cashels		248
Rectangular houses		249
Souterrains		249
Buildings inside ringforts; external enclosures		252
Promontory forts		254
Crannogs: distribution; construction; access		255
Buildings in crannogs		258
Functions and context		259
Other settlement sites; stone houses		260
Wooden houses		261
Settlements in the landscape		261
Archaeology and farming		263
Livestock and other domestic animals		265
Tillage: cereals		267
Ploughing		268
Reaping, winnowing, and storage		269
Watermills and querns		270
Other cultivated plants		272
Hunting, fishing, and gathering		273
The archaeological picture of early farming		275
Crafts: wood; tools and utensils		276
Stone and related materials		278
Products from animals and plants		279
Textiles		281
Metalworking		283
Glass and enamel		287
Pottery		288

Exchange and trade	290
Wealth	292
The viking impact	295
The chronological framework	296
IX THE CHURCH IN IRISH SOCIETY, 400-800
by Kathleen Hughes
The influence of romanised Gaul	301
Palladius, Auxerre, and southern Ireland	302
The influence of Roman Britain	303
Pelagian controversy; Patrick and the north	305
The evidence of annals and genealogies for the arrival of Christianity	306
The early church: Patrick's writings	308
The pre-monastic church outside secular society	309
The first phase, c.400-500	310
The coming of monasticism	311
Role of the abbot; organisation; the paruchia	312
Endowment of bishoprics and monasteries	313
Manaig	313
Literary evidence	314
The position c.700: adjustment to the secular law	315
Monastic towns; changes in the position of abbots	316
Monastic war and internal contention; Armagh	317
Revival of asceticism: the céli Dé ; prayer and learning	319
A healthy and accepted church, c.800	320
Spirituality: the evangelism of Patrick	321
The pilgrim life abroad; Columbanus	322
Spiritual exercise; prayer; penance	323
The Easter controversy	325
An archaic church; Latin	326
Biblical commentary	327
Literature: adapted importations; apocrypha and invention	329
X EARLY IRISH LAW by T. M. Charles-Edwards
Written sources as evidence; texts and commentaries	331
Legislation	332
The cáin : clerical law and royal edict	334
Chance survival of documents	337
The tract-compilation 'Senchas Már'	337
Contents	338

Subject-matter	339
The legal shape of society: law and Irish life	341
Courts and authority	342
Dating the Senchas Már : Thurneysen's case	342
Style as a criterion	344
The 'Bretha Nemed'	345
Binchy's view: modest beginnings before general acceptance	348
Legal schools	349
Learned professions; druid, fili , and brithem	350
Legal tradition and the Christian church	352
Written law: the influence of Latin	356
Clientship: the 'jubilee' and the influence of Mosaic law	357
Iudex and brithem	361
The 'Corpus iuris Hibernensis'	362
Distinction and overlap	365
Rights, obligations, and legal tools	366
Law as a historical source	368
The brief era of written law	369
XI HIBERNO-LATIN LITERATURE TO 1169
by Dáibhí Ó Cróinín
Christianity and the introduction of Latin	371
The first phase: Patrick and Palladius	372
The second phase: predominant monastic influence	373
Columbanus	374
Elementary instruction in Latin	376
The comprehensiveness of Irish learning in Latin	377
The south midlands group: Cumman, Laidcend, Béccán	378
Hiberni and Romani	381
Bernhard Bischoff and Irish exegesis	382
Foreign visitors to Irish schools; the 'Hisperica Famina'	383
Hagiography: Cogitosus, Tirechán, Adomnán	384
Seventh-century exegesis, computus, and grammar	387
Virgilius Maro grammaticus	388
The influence of Isidore of Seville; other works from Spain	390
The flowering of verse composition	391
The 'Collectio canonum Hibernensis'; Cú Chuimne	391
Colmán, Cellanus, and others	392

Biblical commentary; the Reference Bible	393
Irish scholars and their reputations abroad	394
Sedulius	397
Eriugena	399
Israel; Marianus	401
The twelfth century: end of the golden age of Hiberno-Latin	403
XII 'WHAT WAS BEST OF EVERY LANGUAGE': THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE IRISH LANGUAGE
by Paul Russell	405
Irish, the 'selected language'	405
The naming of the language	407
Geographical spread; input from other languages	408
Early evidence: Ptolemy's map; Ogam inscriptions	410
Manuscripts: Old Irish	412
Middle Irish	413
Orthography: Ogam script	414
Insular Latin script; British spelling system	415
Vowel length; consonants	418
The Celtic languages: insular and continental	420
Verbal morphology: the gap in attestation dates	421
Sound changes in Proto-Celtic	422
Goidelic and Brittonic: lenition	423
Palatalised consonants	426
Developments within Old and Middle Irish	429
Nominal declension	429
'Absolute' and 'conjunct' distinctions in verbs	431
Redevelopments of the verbal system in Middle Irish	433
Vocabulary	434
The example of mac(c)	434
Loanwords from Latin and viking sources	436
Calques	438
Dialectal variation	439
Relative clauses	441
Standard and non-standard terms	442
A register of non-dialectal language	443
Models for a high literary register: Latin	446
Early distinctions between types of language	448

XIII LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE TO 1169
by James Carney	451
The poetic order: origin, status, and functions	451
The church	454
Poetry, c. 500-1200	454
Forms	454
Immediacy and universality	456
Metaphor; standardised language	456
Early verse; dindshechus ; official compositions	458
The impact of Genesis: 'Lebor Gabála Érenn'	460
Fomairi and Tuatha Dé	461
Mythological tales: 'Cath Maige Tuired'	464
'Tochmarc Étaíne'	466
The Ulster-Connacht tales: 'Táin Bó Cuailnge'	468
Associated tales	472
Historical basis of the 'Táin'; oral tradition	473
O'Rahilly's interpretation	475
Later cycles	478
The Leinster and midland tradition; scélshenchus	479
'Togail Bruidne Da Derga'	483
The Munster tradition	485
Cormac mac Cuilennáinn	486
Other compositions	487
The Finn cycle	487
'Acallam na Senórach'; 'Duanaire Finn'	489
The literature of Christianity	491
Glosses and commentaries	491
Hagiographical material: Lives; 'The monastery of Tallaght'	492
Verse on scriptural and ecclesiastical themes: Blathmac	495
'Félire Oengusso'	495
'Saltair na Rann'; apocrypha, etc.	498
Tale-types: echtrae , 'expedition'	500
Fís, 'vision'	502
Immram, 'voyage': Bran	502
Máel Dúin	507
Versions of classical and post-classical texts	509

XIV MANUSCRIPTS AND PALAEOGRAPHY

by William O'Sullivan

Palaeography versus art history	511
Irish or Anglo-Saxon?	511
E. A. Lowe, Julian Brown, and Malcolm Parkes	513
Calfskin and sheepskin; roll and codex	515
Britain as the source of Irish script	517
Development of script: from rustic to half-uncial	517
Early Irish half-uncial: 'Usserianus Primus', the Milan Basilius, and the Springmount tablets	518
The Bobbio manuscripts; Luxeuil script	520
The earliest insular majuscule: the Cathach and the Milan Orosius	521
Wilfrid, Willibrord, and the origins of insular minuscule	523
The Echternach, MacDurnan, and Durham Gospels	523
The Maeseyck and Lindisfarne Gospels	525
The Book of Durrow; the Turin Gospels	526
The Book of Kells	528
The Garland of Howth	531
The Cotton and Southampton Psalters	532
The Psalter of St Caimin; the Cormac Psalter	532
The Stowe Missal, St Gall Gospels, and Reichenau fragment	533
The Antiphony of Bangor; Adomnán's Life of Columba	534
Pocket Gospels; Book of Dimma, Book of Mulling, Book of Armagh	535
The scribe Ferdomnach; the MacDurnan Gospels	536
Irish copies of Priscian's grammar	537
The tenth century	538
A late-tenth-century renaissance?	539
Survival of insular scripts in Ireland	540
Wales and Scotland	541
Eleventh-century manuscripts by Irish scribes	541
Native learning in Irish: the Book of Armagh; Leabhar na hUidhre	545
The Book of Glendalough; the Book of Leinster	546
The Annals of Inisfallen; charters in the Book of Kells	547
An outline of development	548

XV IRELAND c.800: ASPECTS OF SOCIETY

by Donnchadh Ó Corráin

Woods, bogs, and clearances	549
Settlements: ringforts	550
Cashels, crannogs, souterrains, and enclosure buildings	551

Ownership and use of land: the derbfine	553
Timber; fences	554
Arable and pasture; subdivision	555
A prosperous community: the Cush site	557
Implements; manure	558
Cereals	559
Harvesting and storage	561
Querns and watermills	562
Vegetables; beans and peas; flax; apples	566
Livestock and dairying	568
Raiding for cattle	569
Grazing, herding, and shelter	570
Fodder	571
Milk and milk products	572
Pigs	574
Sheep	574
Food supply and famine	575
Livestock epidemics and shortage of fodder	576
Effects on society: status, migration, and violence against churches	577
Life-expectancy; population changes; epidemics	578
Public anxiety; visions and the supernatural	579
Orthodox religion and social order: the cána	582
The churches in the eighth and ninth centuries: power and influence	584
Hereditary succession in the church	585
Monastic independence; dynastic mainstream	588
Churches and law: assimilation to secular society	590
Contract between church and laity; pastoral care	594
Monastic towns and paruchia	598
Monastic war	600
Small churches	601
Varieties of religious practice; asceticism; the céli Dé	605
The diversity of the church in Irish society	607
XVI THE VIKING AGE	609
by F. J. Byrne	609
The vikings in Irish and Norse sources	609
First phase, 794-836: isolated peripheral raids	610
Second phase, 837-73: major incursions	611
The general European crisis of the 830s	613
The high-kingship of Máel Sechnaill	614
Viking fortified camps: Dunrally	615

Norse-Irish alliances	616
Máel Sechnaill opposed by the Uí Néill	617
Pirates or merchants?	618
Viking settlements: siting on provincial borders	619
Scandinavian and Irish society	620
Towns	620
The Scandinavian peoples: homelands and contacts	620
Sweden; Denmark; the common 'Danish language'	622
Norway	623
Ships and voyages	624
Literature	625
The reputation of the vikings	626
The Scandinavians who were not vikings	627
Pre-Christian religion	628
Appendix: Old Norse borrowings into Irish	630
Place-names of Norse origin	631
XVII THE IRISH CHURCH, 800-c.1050
by Kathleen Hughes	635
An established church in a stable society	635
Varieties of monastic government	636
Attacks by laymen	637
Viking warfare: plunder, enslavement, and slaughter	638
The effects of viking attacks on churches	639
Legal and institutional effects: end of the cána	640
Increase in pluralism	641
Combination of royal office and monastic appointment	642
Suspension of monastic warfare	643
Spiritual and intellectual life: scholars on the Continent	644
Irish overtakes Latin as a scholarly language	645
The tenth century: lessening of viking pressure	646
Assimilation of viking and Irish society	646
Monastic warfare resumes	646
Aggrandisement of major monastic houses: Armagh	647
Pluralism declines	648
The blurring of divisions between church and secular society	648
Literature: lyric poetry	649
History: the accommodation of native tradition with biblical accounts	650
The 'Sanas Cormaic'	651

Voyage tales	653
Saints' Lives: Patrick in the 'Tripartite Life'	654
A growing need for reform	655
XVIII CHURCH AND POLITICS, c.750-c.1100
by F. J. Byrne	656
Ferdomnach and the Book of Armagh	656
Repromulgation of the Law of Patrick in the North	657
Southern Brega	658
Mide and Munster	659
Dub dá Leithe and the abbacy of Armagh	659
Connacht	660
Clonmacnoise; ecclesiastical battles	660
Dynastic succession	661
The Book of Armagh	662
The foundation of Kells, 807	663
The Columban community in Scotland; Dunkeld	665
Attempts to revive Iona as head of a united Columban church	665
Slane; Louth	667
Monastic families and lay dynasties	669
Secularisation and the Culdee reaction	670
Kildare and the kings of Leinster	671
Armagh: the achievement of the Clann Sinaig abbots	675
Family influence and celibacy: Iona	678
Bangor and Down	678
Clonmacnoise	679
XIX VISUAL ARTS AND SOCIETY
by Hilary Richardson	680
The flowering of Irish art	680
Isolation and stability: the survival of Celtic genius	681
The viking and Carolingian eras: turmoil and innovation	681
Christianity and prehistoric tradition	681
Megalithic decoration	682
La Tène decoration	683
Compass-drawn curves in Christian work	685
Cú Chulainn's shield: elusion in Celtic art	687
The church: a new patron for artists	688
Early evidence for design: metalwork	688
Problems of dating; the chance of survival	689

Spirituality: Christian reuse of Celtic themes	690
Carved wood; paintings	691
Metalwork; enamel	692
Millefiori; brooches	693
Cloisonné; hanging bowls	694
Reliquaries and shrines	696
Iona and the cultural milieu of the Scotti	698
Manuscripts and illumination	698
The increasing importance of decoration	700
Scribes and script	700
The Ardagh chalice; the Derrynavlan hoard	702
Numerology and symbolism	704
The Tara brooch	704
High crosses	706
From ornament to figure-carving	708
Dating	710
The eleventh and twelfth centuries: changes of direction	711
Romanesque art and Celtic persistence	712
The continuing influence of Irish art	713
XX ECCLESIASTICAL ARCHITECTURE
BEFORE 1169
by Roger Stalley	714
Austerity and simplicity	714
Problems of evidence	715
Ditches and stone walls: Derry and other major sites	716
Inishmurray; Nendrum	717
Functions of boundary walls	717
Buildings within the walls	718
Layout of monasteries: the Irish approach	718
Use of churches	720
Wooden churches: Kildare; the derthech	721
Ornamentation	722
Moving and working timber	723
Archaeological remains	724
Stone churches: the daimhliag	725
Persistence of timber construction in Ireland	725
Dry-stone work: clochán and oratory; corbelled roofs	726
Problems of dating	727
Pre-Romanesque layout and construction	728

Larger churches	729
Masonry	730
Round towers	731
Who erected monastic buildings?	734
Costs	735
Romanesque influences	735
Cistercian foundations: the cloister garth	735
The survival of Hiberno-Romanesque	736
Innovations: Cashel	737
Arches; columns; gables	738
Possible sources of imported elements	739
Cormac's Chapel	740
Fusion of native and foreign elements: chevron ornament	741
Sculpted heads	741
Influence of metalwork; surface colouring	742
The uniqueness of twelfth-century Irish building	743
XXI MUSIC IN PREHISTORIC AND MEDIEVAL IRELAND
by Ann Buckley	744
Archaeological evidence and comparative data	744
Early Celtic music	745
Horns	746
The social context of music in Gaelic Ireland	747
Irish names of instruments	749
Status and functions of musicians	751
Dance	754
Organised sound and time; work-songs; laments	755
Women's music	756
Evidence from the annals	757
Giraldus Cambrensis	758
Anglo-Norman Ireland: imported musical practices	764
Plays and pageants	766
Iconography: lyres and harps	767
Bowed and wind instruments	769
Interpreting images	770
Archaeological evidence: stringed instruments	773
Aerophones	775
Bells; jew's harps	775
Liturgy: the 'Celtic rite'	776
Vikings and Christianity	777

Pre- and post-Norman church reform	777
'Sarum use' and other influences	778
Hiberno-Latin hymns: the Bangor Antiphony and 'Liber hymnorum'	780
Missals	783
Other sources	786
Liturgical drama	792
Continental sources	793
Survivals from pre-Norman Ireland: the Caen antiphons	794
Other pieces	796
Chant	798
Polyphony	800
Instrumental accompaniment: strings and organs	802
Horns and bells	805
Music education: notation and theory	806
Conclusions	807
Appendix I: Irish manuscripts containing music notation	809
Appendix II: index of libraries	811
XXII THE ARCHAEOLOGY OF IRELAND'S VIKING-AGE TOWNS
by Patrick F. Wallace	814
The Hiberno-Norse town: a picture emerging	814
Dublin: the longphort	815
The enclosed and defended dún	817
Waterford, Wexford, Limerick, Cork	817
Locations: access to the sea	818
Defence: earthen embankments	820
Stone revetments; gateways	820
Internal divisions: streets, lanes, and yards	823
Yard sizes and layouts	824
Building types	828
Sill-beam houses	830
Common characteristics of Hiberno-Norse towns	830
Crafts: the problem of survival of evidence	831
Wood	832
Work in bone and antler	832
Metalwork	833
Textiles; amber; leather	833
Supply: the hinterland	834
Imports: ceramics, textiles, soapstone	835
Wealth: loot; merchants; silver hoards	836

Wine, slaves, artefacts	836
Mints and coinage	837
Trading contacts	838
Dublin's growing importance within Ireland	840
XXIII COINS AND COINAGE IN PRE-NORMAN IRELAND
by Michael Kenny	842
Periods	842
The coinless age: till the end of the ninth century	842
The 'Anglo-Saxon' period: advent of coinage in the tenth century	843
Coinage in Irish society	844
The 'Hiberno-Norse' period: Dublin viking coinage	844
Problems of design, origin, and purpose	845
Coin issues of the early eleventh century	846
'Dolley Phase V', c.1065-95	848
Bracteate coins: issued by native authority?	849
The context of the viking world	850
XXIV IRELAND BEFORE THE BATTLE OF CLONTARF
by F. J. Byrne	852
The vikings and Brittany	852
Jarl Ottar and the devastation of Munster	853
The return of the grandsons of Ivar	855
The north of Ireland; Máel Brigte mac Tornáin	855
Uí Néill power in fact and in doctrine	857
Internal divisions	858
The Clann Cholmáin of Mide	860
XXV IRELAND AND HER NEIGHBOURS, c.1014-c.1072
by F. J. Byrne	862
Brian Bóruma, imperator Scottorum	862
Gruffydd ap Cynan	863
Gaelicised Norse in Man and Galloway	864
Enmity between Northern and Southern Uí Néill	864
The 'synthetic historians': Flann Mainistrech	865
Works attributed to Flann	865
'Ríg Themra tóebaige iar tain'	866
'Rédig dam, a Dé do nim'	866
Other works	867
Flann and the Cenél nEógain	868
Political terminology: the interregnum or 'Free State' of 1022-72	869

Royal officials: the máer and mormáer	870
The toisech or dux	872
Tuath , muintir , and tricha cét	872
Rí and rechtaire	873
Muire	875
Air-rí	877
Airecht	878
Cáin and rechtge	879
The 'decline' of the Uí Néill in the eleventh century: the Cenél nEogain	879
The Cenél Conaill	881
Airgialla	882
The Airthir	882
The Uí Chrimthainn	883
The Mugdorna	883
Overview of the eleventh century	884
The apogee of Scandinavian Europe	884
Religious conversion	885
The Continent: the eastern and western empires	885
The papacy	886
Harald Hardrada; the English question	887
The Normans	888
The revival of Ulster	891
Alliance with Uí Chennselaig	892
Filiogeniture	893
Ardgar Mac Lochlainn	894
An Uí Briain king in Tullaghogue	895
' Cert cech rí co réil'	895
The Scottish dimension: MacBeth; Thorfinn the Mighty	896
The end of an era	898
XXVI HIGH-KINGS WITH
OPPOSITION, 1072-1166 by Marie Therese Flanagan	899
The rise of Toirrdelbach ua Briain	899
Deaths of the kings of Leinster and Mide , 1072-3	900
Toirrdelbach's control of Dublin; influence in other regions	900
Defeat of Donnchad ua Ruairc , 1084	901
The Cenél nEogain	901
Toirrdelbach's court; dynastic rivals	902
Domestic politics; trade; relations with the church	903
Dublin and Canterbury	903

Church reform and royal authority	904
Armagh and the high-kings	905
Toirrdelbach's son Muirchertach succeeds, 1086	907
Consolidation in Leinster and Connacht	907
Opposition from Domnall Mac Lochlainn	907
The struggle for Ulaid ; the battle of Mag Coba , 1103	909
Connections with England; Muirchertach and Archbishop Anselm	911
Canterbury and the Irish church	911
The synod of Cashe , 1101	914
The Book of Rights	914
Armagh's primacy acknowledged, 1106	914
The synod of Ráith Bressail , 1111: a nationwide diocesan hierarchy	915
Gilla Espaic as papal legate	916
Sources on Muirchertach : ' Cocad Gáedel re Gallaib ' and ' Lebor na Cert '	916
Death of Muirchertach , 1119; rise of Toirrdelbach ua Conchobair	917
Death of Domnall Mac Lochlainn , 1121	917
Resistance to Ua Conchobair : Mac Carthaig resurgence in Munster	918
' Caithréim Chellacháin Chaisil '	919
Cormac Mac Carthaig and the high-kingship	919
Malachy's headship of the Irish church, 1134	920
Connacht dissents	920
Resistance to Ua Conchobair : Mac Murchada in Leinster	921
Conflict between Ua Briain and Mac Carthaig	922
Bréifne and Airgialla	922
Armagh and the kingdoms	923
The Lateran councils of 1123 and 1139	924
Mide : contraction, instability, and intervention	925
Cenél nEogain : dynastic conflict	925
The rise of Muirchertach Mac Lochlainn	926
The synod of Kells , 1152: reflection of political balance	927
Mac Lochlainn intervenes in Munster, 1153	928
Death of Toirrdelbach ua Conchobair , 1156	928
Toirrdelbach's failure to exploit church reform	929
Mac Lochlainn and the church: Mellifont , Newry , Ardraccan	929
The synod of Bri Mhic Thaidc , 1158; Derry	930
Áth na Dairbrige , 1161	930
Ruaidrí ua Conchobair	931
Mac Lochlainn 'king of Ireland without opposition', 1161	932

Mac Duinn Sléibe's revolt and blinding, 1165-6	932
Ua Conchobair's bid for the high-kingship; Mac Murchada is exiled	932
XXVII LATIN LEARNING AND LITERATURE IN IRELAND, 1169-1500 by A. B. Scott
Latin writings of Irishmen after 1169: a lack of common features	934
The Gaelic Irish: limited uses for Latin	934
Cultural conservatism; the image of an undeveloped Ireland	935
The Anglo-Irish: lack of centres of scholarship in Ireland	935
Unsuccessful attempts to found universities	936
The effect on clerical careers	937
Education within the religious orders: the mendicant friars	938
The Cistercians	938
The Irish at universities: Oxford	940
Disorderly conduct	940
Paris; Italy	943
Irish in papal service; study in German-speaking lands	946
Richard FitzRalph	947
The commentary on Lombard; the 'Summa de questionibus Armenorum'	948
FitzRalph's attack on the friars; 'De pauperie Salvatoris'	949
Further attacks on the friars: Henry Crumpe	951
John Whitehead	952
Philip Norreys	953
Oxford as intellectual centre: the example of Adam Payne	954
Geoffrey Shale	955
Thomas of Ireland: the 'Manipulus florum'	956
Shorter works	958
Peter of Ireland	959
Maurice O'Fihely	959
Editions of Duns Scotus	961
Irish lawyers: William of Drogheda	962
John of Fintona	965
Moral treatises: Friar Malachy's 'Venenum'	968
The 'Liber exemplorum'	969
Moral concordances: Wadding's edition of the 'Promptuarium'	971
Richard Ledred's apologia	973
The cantilenae	974
Church drama	976
Latin verse	977
Travel writing: Symon Semeonis	979
	980

Pilgrimages to Lough Derg: accounts of visions	982
John Colton's visitation of Derry diocese	986
Anglo-Irish annals: Christ Church	988
John Clyn	989
Kilkenny; Multyfarnham	990
St Mary's abbey	991
'Pembroke'	991
Marlborough; other annals	992
Hagiography: the 'Codex Kilkenniensis' and 'Codex Salamanticensis'	993
BIBLIOGRAPHY
by F. J. Byrne, Peter Harbison, and Dáibhí Ó Cróinín	996
INDEX
	1148