DRAGAN EUROPEAN FOUNDATION

The Dragan European Foundation is a European-scale organization that was legally formed in 1968 at Palma de Mallorca by Prof. Iosif Constantin Dragan, a man of profound and vast culture, a historian of civilizations and a humanist, a businessman and an expert in management and marketing.

The Foundation aims to promote culture, both through circulating and spreading ideas and by sponsoring research, in order to develop, by means of improved mutual acquaintance, a spirit of cooperation among nations to prepare a real European consciousness.

To achieve the aims of its Constitution, the Dragan European Foundation has promoted numerous international activities: private universities (the Dragan European University in Romania and the Dragan University – Golden Age in Milan); post-graduate diploma courses; publishing and television activities; the Odobleja Cybernetics Academy and the European Association of Bio-Economic Studies; the launching of specialist journals, like the Bulletin européen, first issued in 1950, just to mention one; collaboration with the programs of the United Nations Organisation for Education, Science and Culture by forming the UNESCO Centre in Milan; creation of the European Centre of Thracian Studies and of the European Centre of Applied Medical Research, and organizing conference cycles and international symposia.

It is the Foundation's belief that a real European unity is not just a political and economic event but must be effected not just through political integration but also by creating a truly European cultural community.
