CATHOLIC PRACTICE IN NORTH AMERICA

SERIES CO-EDITORS:

Angela Alaimo O'Donnell, Associate Director of the Francis and Ann
Curran Center for American Catholic Studies, Fordham
University

John C. Seitz, Assistant Professor, Theology Department, Fordham
University

This series aims to contribute to the growing field of Catholic studies through the publication of books devoted to the historical and cultural study of Catholic practice in North America, from the colonial period to the present. As the term "practice" suggests, the series springs from a pressing need in the study of American Catholicism for empirical investigations and creative explorations and analyses of the contours of Catholic experience. In seeking to provide more comprehensive maps of Catholic practice, this series is committed to publishing works from diverse American locales, including urban, suburban, and rural settings; ethnic, postethnic, and transnational contexts; private and public sites; and seats of power as well as the margins.
